

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
1. The fishermen hated the large swarms of jellyfish because they would clog their nets.	4
2. Before selling his mansion with all its antique interior, the earl ...	died.
3. The guest envied the hostess of the party which was the biggest event in town.	5
4. The principal congratulated the supervisor of the students who ?	graduated.
5. The inspector learnt that the handbag of the diplomat's wife had been ...	stolen the night before.
6. Because of last night's TV documentary, the young woman vowed never to eat meat again.	5
7. The keynote enlightened the participants at the meeting who did not expect such eloquence.	5
8. The puppet show uplifted the children at the ward that ?	couldn't get home for the weekend.
9. The archaeologist discovered an unusual fossil which turned out to be a discarded film prop.	5
10. The accomplice of the recently convicted fraudster alleged they were only in it for the money.	5

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
11. The cult members celebrated the death of their guru who had promised them an eternal afterlife.	5
12. The campaigners celebrated the outcome of the elections that ?	day.
13. According to the monk in plaster cast, the steps down the temple were a bit steep.	5
14. There were rumours that the contract of the team's manager had not been ...	signed.
15. The TV channel showed a report on the duke who had some dubious friends in the past.	5
16. The screen showed error messages of the programme that ?	caused it crash.
17. The old lady brought her troublesome grandchildren some ?	sweets to distract them.
18. The postman was scared off by a large dog, so next time ?	he avoided that house.
19. The playboy beguiled the main actress of the movie which had some explicit scenes in it.	5
20. The anthropologist approached the chief of the natives who ?	looked friendly.

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
21. The invited speaker switched on the microphone before ...	introducing himself.
22. The teenagers barricaded the main entrance of the school so that no one could get in.	5
23. The conductor disliked the baritone singer of the choir who was a bit full of himself.	4
24. The head of state praised the work of the charities that ?	raised money.
25. The musicians deflected criticisms of their new CD, stating ?	they were under pressure.
26. The woman complained that the bicycles of the neighbour's kids were leaving black marks.	5
27. The insurer snubbed the tenant of the flat which reportedly had a water leak.	4
28. The baroness snubbed the housemaids of the millionaire who ?	owned the mansion.
29. Because of unexpectedly harsh weather conditions in spring, ?	there are less daffodils this year.
30. The pianist noted that the strings of the soloist's violin were ...	brightly coloured.

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
31. The foody criticized the dish by the head chef which was very spicy.	4
32. The scientist criticised the methods of the study that ?	had recently finished.
33. The company was worried about their eco-friendly image, so they planted some trees.	5
34. The preschoolers rounded up as many snails as they could find for another busy day.	4
35. The sleazy agent flattered the mistress of the house who wasn't as gullible as he expected.	5
36. The internet troll harassed the candidate of the Lib Dems who ?	completely ignored him.
37. The ranger of the forest near the city borders forbid ...	anyone from crossing the line.
38. The family found it difficult to adjust to living in France since none of them spoke French.	5
39. The cardinal hired the painter of the famous fresco who was also an exquisite sculptor.	5
40. The promoter hired the staffers of the catering firm that ?	year.

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
41. The wizard invited acclaimed adventures to his castle to steal their vast riches.	2
42. The church choir had to stop unexpectedly after the organist ?.	fainted.
43. The commentary angered the organizer of the rally which took place in London last week.	5
44. The parade delighted the devotees of the queen who ?	waved and cheered as she passed.
45. The lollipop man watched the traffic as a trail of ducks waddled across the road.	5
46. The doctor helped heal the horse?s broken leg until she made a miraculous recovery.	5
47. The rich uncle missed the graduation of his niece who got a first-class degree.	5
48. The shooter missed two targets at the firing range that ?	evening.
49. The politician blustered that future rioters will be facing the full force of the law.	5
50. The interviewer listened patiently before noticing that he did not pay attention.	4

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
51. The freshman looked up the notes from the tutor which were relevant for the exam.	5
52. The applicant read through the small print in the forms that ?	she'd been given.
53. After washing the salad with its firm green leaves, the scullion ...	prepared the rest of the ingredients.
54. The barman slid a whiskey and a beer over to the cowboy from the adverts.	5
55. The detective recorded the testimony of the witness who was very cooperative.	5
56. The secretary filed the letters from the department that ?	day.
57. The priest looked after the asylum seekers because ...	he cared about their well being.
58. The robber decided to leave empty-handed after he found ?	the safe empty.
59. The sea captivated many artists of the 19th century which was the age of impressionism.	5
60. The theory inspired research on quantum particles that ?	had never been done before.

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
61. They waded through dusty cobwebs in the attic until they found boxes full of old board games.	5
62. Given the reports about quicksand, the adventurer decided the best would be to wait.	3
63. The plumber fixed the kitchen sink of the old lady who was living on her own.	5
64. The mechanic fixed the brakes of the F1 car that ?	would later race to victory.
65. The labourer loaded planks of timber onto the van before he drove off to the building site.	5
66. To help the penguins digest, zookeepers urged patrons not to deep fry fish.	5
67. The tabloid questioned the landlord of the estate who did not care about fire regulations.	5
68. The headmaster questioned the classmate of the bullies who ?	who had been accused of tormenting the student.
69. All her friends chipped in for her birthday to surprise her with ?	the holiday of a lifetime.
70. Looking back over 3 months of receiving psychiatric help, he felt like ?	he had exorcised his demons.

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
71. The priest cherished the book by the medieval bishop which was precious and unique.	4
72. The pop fan cherished the albums of the band that ?	broke up in the 70's.
73. The expert claimed the earthquake was due to a seismic slip from drilling on an oil rig.	5
74. The soldiers charged into the jungle in the search of hidden Aztec artefacts.	3
75. The poet recited a sonnet about a princess which did not rhyme at all.	5
76. The psychologist wrote an article on mental disorders that ?	many critiqued.
77. The overeager Crown Prosecutor alleged that the defendant ...	was guilty.
78. Since the mountain was incredibly dangerous, the rock climbers ?	took their time.
79. The pirate buried the treasure chest of the captain who was notorious for his cruelty.	5
80. The soldier guarded the gates to the palace that ?	day.

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
81. Because of a considerable delay of the 7.30am train, ...	commuters were late.
82. Due to new safety regulations, the construction of the new bridge ?	was delayed by 2 years.
83. The angry mob blamed the healer of the village which was afflicted by the plague.	4
84. The defence lawyer blamed the victims of the conman who ?	should have known better.
85. Ever since the DEA cracked down on illicit drugs, dealers began investing in cryptocurrency.	5
86. The passengers on the bus looked on in confusion as they forded through the River Clyde.	5
87. The businesswoman married the mayor of the city who was nominated for an OBE.	5
88. The negotiator met the deputies of the chairman who ?	had sold the company illegally.
89. The skateboarders had to bandage up their knees after they ?	collided.
90. When I was younger my mother used to read me bedtime stories about ?	talking animals.

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
91. Mr Farage welcomed the proposal by the US president which involved privatisation of the NHS.	5
92. The receptionist welcomed the secretary of the diplomats who ?	arrived earlier this morning.
93. The patient had to wait for quite some time before being told to come back another time.	5
94. The prime minister held a press conference and shortly afterwards ...	left for Canada.
95. The passenger insulted the attendant on the flight which operated a no alcohol policy.	5
96. The hooligan insulted the supporters of the foreign team that ?	day and was later found guilty of sectarianism.
97. The grandmaster reluctantly went to the chessboard where he faced a supercomputer.	5
98. The lieutenant ordered that the floors of the battalion's barracks were ...	to be scrubbed with a toothbrush.
99. The toddler kissed the fluffy toy of her playmate which was made of 100% polyester.	5
100. The diva kissed the puppies at the dog shelter that ?	evening.

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
101. The film was torn apart by cineastes, but most people thought it was too pretentious.	4
102. The cat impressed all at the talent show by demonstrating an understanding of calculus.	3
103. The coach yelled at the groundsman of the football pitch which was very untidy.	5
104. The boss yelled at the trainees of the foreman who ?	had failed to teach them health and safety.
105. Thanks to stricter speed checks on national motorways ...	there have been less RTA's.
106. Shortly before the fully occupied passenger plane had landed, ...	the Captain made an announcement.
107. The burglars surprised the watchman of the bank who was not expecting such audacity.	5
108. The pay rise surprised the speaker of the unionists who ?	had not been expecting it.
109. The cook decided that wasabi was a poor choice because ?	not everyone could appreciate its unique flavour.
110. The picnic was going so well until swans from the pond feasted on all the bread.	5

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
111. The young girl fed the dog of the pensioner that always barked when it saw her.	5
112. The admiral feared an attack on the support ships that ?	night.
113. The management of the successful supermarket chain planned ...	to support the NHS through the COVID-19 Pandemic.
114. The famous entertainer was given a bunch of flowers after ...	her performance.
115. The vegan decried the new diet of her friend who used to eat almost anything.	4
116. The arbiter encouraged a dialogue between the opponents that ?	left others speechless.
117. The small island town held a celebration for its 50th annual ?	Flower Show.
118. The hairdresser was chatting to her colleague in order to honour an old tradition of the trade.	5
119. The constant rain annoyed the celebrities in the camp which was infested with cockroaches.	5
120. The reviews frustrated the co-authors of the researcher who ?	had written an exemplary piece and deserved better accolade.

Original Sentence	Participant Answer
121. The van driver nearly crashed into the pedestrians because he was staring at his phone.	5
122. The friendly mailman delivered a small parcel to ...	the door.
123. The kids chased the goose of the farmer which was chattering frantically.	4
124. The cops chased the getaway car of the mobsters that ?	robbed the convenience store.
125. The rainstorm raged on through the country, causing back-to-back traffic for miles.	5
126. The officer recalled that sails of the buccaneer's ship were ...	red with a black skull painted in the centre.
127. The data astounded the advocate of the standard model who had expected the exact opposite.	5
128. The shouting spooked the neighbour of the newlyweds who ?	quickly retreated back indoors.
Time taken	44 mins